MUSIC.

THE BOSTON ORCHESTRA.

The vicissitudes of the Boston Symphony Orches tra in New-York have entered upon a new phase to judge by the attendance at the first concert of the organization, which took place last night in the Metropolitan Opera House. When the band first began to give concerts in Steinway Hall ten or a dozen years ago the audiences were of the kind usually described as small but select. So far as the mass of the city's music-lovers was concerned, there seemed to exist something like an indifference to the visitors, possibly even a disposition to treat them as interiopers, as if New-York needed no one to come from the farther East to show it what orchestral music might be. Then it was noticeable that the faithful, who were not numerous, but were obviously select, were people of Bostonian antecedents. The number grew, however, for New-York is too metropolitan to cherish small prejudices long, and by the time that it was thought expedient to house the concerts in Carnegle Hall, large audiences of liberal tastes and no marks of even distinguished provinciality awaited the coming of the Boston musicians eagerly, and heard them gladly. There came an unfortunate reaction later, and the scasons at the Metropolitan Opera House have disclosed a great disparity between their artistic and financial outcomes. But there is no discouraging Mr. Higginson, and his reward seems to have come, for the subscription this year is twice as large as that of last year, and last night's audience was such in point of numbers, as well as character, as to make the heart of a manager crow chanticleer.

There was nothing unfamiliar in the programme, though its companies.

though its concluding number. Chabrier's Spanish Rhapsody, has not been heard here often, probably because local conductors have recognized that its success with an audience depends upon the utmost virtuosity in performance, there being nothing in its melodic ideas to compel even moderate respect, to say nothing of admiration. But Mr. name is a good one to conjure with. He played the Schumann Concerto, but not in a way to satisfy all the expectations which the announcement of his purpose awakened. That he is thoroughly in sympathy with the work is open to very serious question. If he were, his performance would surely have been broader and more poetical. There was an intimation in the intermezzo that the feeling of disappointment left by the first movement would be dissipated in the finale, but his treat-ment of its principal melody was singularly incomprehensible, coming from so sincere and experi-enced a musician. Here, as in the preceding portions of his work, the clarity of his chords and the erispness of his finger work were admirable, but the chivalresque pulssance of the music was not brought to the consciousness of the listener. Plain-ly, his heart was not in it, or, if so, not to a frac-tion of the extent that it was in the intermezzo from Brahms's Opus No. 116, which he played on the recall. Here we had not only Brahms in all his loveliness, but also Joseffy, with all his delicacy, all his poetry, all his knowledge of the effects possible to the planeforte. It provided a moment of supreme delight.

The concert began with a tribute to the memory of Brahms-a performance of his symphony in Fviously offered in a spirit of truest devotion by Mr. Paur and his men, and accepted with gladthe audience. After it and the concerto came the familiar "Peer Gynt" music of Grieg, and the Chabrier Rhapsody. The grotesque concluding number, written to illustrate an episode in Ibsen's fantastic creation, made so strong an appeal to the lovers of the bass drum and "Turkish Patrol" effects that it had to be repeated to still the clam-oring of a portion of the audience, notwithstanding that Mr. Paur showed commendable unwillingness to disturb the dignity of the evening, already strained by the Grieg number and the Chabrier, "España," at the time still in petto.

DESERVED TRIBUTE TO COLONEL SMITH.

A SILVER LOVING-CUP PRESENTED BY THE SIXTY-NINTH REGIMENT IN RECOGNITION OF HIS REORGANIZATION OF THE COMMAND.

When the commissioned officers of the 69th Regiment presented a silver loving-cup to their commander, Colonel George Moore Smith, on Thursday evening, they paid a well-deserved compilment to a man who has shown himself to be an efficient officer and a successful organizer. A man with less executive ability would have failed in the difficult task which confronted Colonel Smith when General Fitzgerald placed him in temporary command of the disorganized 69th Battalpon. The organization of the disorganized 69th Battalpon. ment presented a silver loving-cup to their com-Fitzgerald placed him in temporary command of the disorganized 69th Battalion. The organization had been torn by internal strife, contending factions made good discipline impossible, and many officers of high rank in the National Guard advocated the disbandment of the command, because they feared that order could never be restored in its ranks. Colonel Smith left his place as licutenant-colonel of the 7th Regiment and began the its ranks. Colonel Smith left his place as lieuten-ant-colonel of the 7th Regiment and began the its ranks. Colonel Smith left his place as lieutenant-colonel of the 7th Regiment and began the process of reconstruction and reorganization of the battallon, and within a few weeks the change for the better became apparent to all who were interested in the subject. Fault-finders and mischlefmakers were dropped from the rolls, good men were induced to enlist, a rivairy sprang up among the various company commanders as to who should turn out the best company, and slowly but surely the 8th besan to mount in the estimation of the better element of the National Guard, and all recognized the fact that the change was due to Colonel Smith's efforts.

The battalion went to camp, the order for rearganization was issued, and the officers of the command were so thoroughly satisfied that their commander deserved a reward for his successful work that his was the only name mentioned when the vote for colonel was taken. The temporary commander of the 8th Battalion came back from camp at the head of the 6th Regiment as its colonel, and he was as proud of his command as the green were of him. His labors in the interest of the regiment have never ceased, and the new armory which will be built for the regiment will be a monument to his energette work.

FUNERAL OF GENERAL DUANE.

The funeral of General James C. Duane, president of the Aqueduct Board, was held at noon yesterday at the Church of the Incarnation, Madison-ave, and Thirty-fifth-st. The rector, the Rev. W. M. ST. ANDREWS SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS. The annual meeting of St. Andrews Society was held last night at Delmouico's. The annual dinner will take place this year on November 30. After the disposal of routine business the new constitution was read and adopted. It is practically the same constitution as was adopted by the society in 1894, but in that constitution there were several obsolete rules and methods of pro-cedure which it was decided to eliminate. These officers were elected for the ensuing year: William Lyall, president; John Reid and Andrew Carnegle, Mee-presidents: A. B. Hepburn, treasurer; George Austin Morrison, jr., secretary, and the Revs. David G. Wylie and George Alexander, chaplains.

MEETING OF THE NATIONAL GRANGE. Harrisburg, Nov. 11 .- At the meeting of the National Grange this morning some minor reports were submitted and the report of the Committee on Credentials was adopted. Virginia was ruled out, Credentials was adopted. Virginia was ruled out, on the ground that there are not enough subordinate granges in that State to entitle it to representation in the National body. The State masters made encouraging reports. A public reception was held in the Opera House this afternoon in honor of the visiting grangers. Governor Hastings delivered an address of welcome. Among the other speakers were H. O. Devries, of Maryland; J. H. Brigham, Sarah Baird, of Minnesota, and S. L. Wilson, of Mississippi.

IT IS ACCEPTED BY THE PRESBYTERY OF NEW-BRUNSWICK AFTER A LONG DISCUSSION.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 11 (Special).-The resignation from the Presbyterian Church of Dr. Charles Woodruff Shields was accepted by the New-Brunswick Presbytery, which met here this morning. The meeting was called solely for the purpose of acting upon the resignation, which was made pub-

The Presbytery met in the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton, and was called to order at it o'clock by the Moderator, the Rev. Dr. W. W. Knox, of New-Brunswick. Dr. Shields, who was present, rose at once, and in a few words stated his decision to leave the Church. He spoke only in the kindest terms of his ministerial associates, and said that he greatly regretted the action, though ils personal dignity would permit no other irse. Dr. Shields was greatly affected while speaking, and left the room immediately. Before going he gave the secretary a formal letter of resignation, which was read to the assemblage, tion, but some of the members proposed that a see if he would not reconsider his decision. President Patton, of Princeton University, dispelled all doubt on the matter at this juncture by stating that he could authoritatively say that Dr. Shields's decision was final. An attempt was then made to have a vote on the original motion. At this moment the opposition forces showed their hands. While all members of the Presbytery were willing to accept the resignation, some of them wanted the session to produce positive assertions in regard to their attitude on the license question, and thus let the Church and public at large know the pariculars of this case. The other side maintained that the acceptance or non-acceptance of Dr. Shields's resignation was the sole point at issue. A debate of more than two hours brought no result, and finally, on the motion of Dr. Itogan, the sersion appointed a committee of five to settle the matter.

suit, and finally, on the motion of Dr. Rogan, the sersion appointed a committee of five to settle the matter.

After a recess this committee delivered its decision. The committee, consisting of Dr. John T. Duffield, of Princeton University; Dr. Purves, of the Princeton Seminary; Dr. Rogan, Elder Hamilton and Judge Lanning of Trenton, announced that the following resolutions were the result of the committee's conference:

"Whereas, Dr. Charles W. Shields having informed the Presbytery that he withdraws from their Jurisdiction, and having informed the Presbytery that he requests that his name be dropped from the roll of the Presbytery;

"Resolved. That his request be granted and that the stated clerk remove his name from the roll. "Resolved. That to prevent misapprehension of the action of the Presbytery, the Presbytery deems it advisable to call the attention of our ministers, elders and members to the deliverances of the General Assembly in 1871 and 1877 in regard to the signing of petitions for the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage."

These resolutions were accepted by the Presbytery after some discussion.

The deliverances of the General Assembly in 1871 and 1877 referred to read as follows: "That we regard the signing of petitions for license as reprehensible compileity in the sale of intoxicating liquors."

PRESBYTERIAN COMMITTEE MEETS.

AN ENDEAVOR TO SOLVE THE HOME MISSION PROBLEM OF THE CHURCH.

Indianapolis, Nov. 11.-The special committee of fifteen appointed by the last General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America met in its first session at the Denison Hotel this morning. Dr. Withrow, of Chicago, is chairman. The committee is to endeavor to solve the home mission problem of the Church, and report its solution to the next General Assembly. The members of the committee express themselves gen erally as being of the opinion that a compromise will be made between the National and the State plan of control of the home missions. The State plan is better known as the Indiana plan because it was founded in this State. Governor Mount, the Indiana representative on the committee, was one of the three men who originated the plan. The Central States representatives will favor the retention of the Indiana plan and say that they know a majority of the members of the committee are in sympathy with it. They have fortified themselves with facts and figures taken from the Church's reports under the two plans, showing the increased good results that have come from the use of the new p.an. The members of the committee believe that an agreement will be reached, but the friends of the State plan are firm, and are prepared to make a minority report to the General Assembly in case the "compromise" offered is not satisfactory to them. a majority of the members of the committee are

He says salt is 29 cents a pound there, flour $15 a barrel and coal $18 a ton. "The revenue raised from salt," he added, "pays the expenses of the army, which isn't a robust one, to be sure. It also pays the running expenses of the schools. Guzman Blanco," he says, "could give points to a good many politicians here. In the days when he was doing business he owned everything in The people there are great ones for building in any other country I ever saw. Old Blanco, after he had built a statue to every one he could think of, built one for himself. He put it right in the centre of Caracas, on top of an elevation of about one thousand feet—a sort of a pleateau which he fixed up as an imitation of the hanging gardens of Babylon. They have a law there that a President cannot succeed himself, but Blanco fixed that all right. He would serve his term of four years, and then order an election, and deciare one of his personal retainers elected. He would appoint himself Minister to France, and from Paris would run the Government. When the four years were up he would come back and take hold again. In this way he transferred to Paris the great wealth which he is now enjoying there. This went well until Crespo, who is the President-elect, and whom they call the cowboy,' took it into his head to form an anti-machine organization. He gathered together a troop, which increased as he approached Caracas. Blanco went out to meet him, and requised him, but in a latter fight Blanco was routed and he had to flee. The people, who fight and then erect a statue to some one interested, at once accepted Crespo and tore down Blanco's statue, rolled it down the hill and poured it full of lead. Now Crespo is coming in as President, Blanco is in Paris and is having a good time. I saw statues to Bolivar and to President Monroe. The free-silver men are trying to take a lot of comfort out of the recent elections in which local auses figured so prominently. W. A. McCorkie. formerly Governor of West Virginia, who is an advocate of bimetallism and a supporter of Bryan, is looked upon as a candidate for renomination for Governor. "I think," he said, "the greatly reduced Republican majorities, and especially in Onlo, a victory for Democracy and himetallism. The falling off was, I am told, purely voluntary, and the Democrats spent no money, while the Republicans worked hard. As for New-York, I think that the election means a Democratic victory in 1900."

"Unless something that is now unforeseen happens, he nomination of William J. Bryan is an assured certainty in 1906," said Daniel N. He is a warm personal, as well as political, follower of Mr. Bryan, and says frankly that already lines of Mr. Bryan, and says frankly that already lines are being had to insure Mr. Bryan's nomination in the next Presidential contest. "We can make a much better fight next time," he continued. "It is hard to build up a great organization in three months, and in the face of that the great personal campaign made by Mr. Bryan is a marvel. We will know where the weak spois and the descriers are next time, and we will go ahead with additional regulation with the most state of the matter of the second tour at this time, he answered that it was not, and added that Mr. Bryan was working for the cause, and not for money.

COVERNOR BLACK RECOMMENDS CHARITY AS TRUE WORSHIP.

Albany, Nov. 11.-Governor Black issued his first Albany, Nov. II.—Governor Black issued his lifet Thanksgiving proclamation to-day. Its text follows:

State of New-York, Executive Chamber. The year now passing has been filled with occasions for thanksgiving. Commerce has flourished, and all forms of industry have yielded reasonable returns. Charity and benevolence have been exercised and encouraged; the rights of citizenship respected, and the supremacy of the law maintained. The manifold evidences of general prosperity give courage for the present and hope and confidence for the future. For these beneficent confidence for the people of the State, and I recommend that on that day they refrain from their ordinary pursuits and assemble at their accustomed places of worship and give devout acknowledgment to God for the blessings of this year. I also commend for that day special thoughtfulness for the poor and unfortunate. No higher form of worship could grace Thanksgiving Day than the exercise of a charity so generous and strong that it will continue unabated through all the year.

Done at the Capitol in the city of Albany this Itth day of November in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and ninety-seven.

GATES FOR ANDERSONVILLE PRISON.

THEY USED TO STAND ON BOSTON COMMON, OP-POSITE WEST-ST.

Boston, Nov. 11 (Special).-The City Collector today transferred the old Boston Common gates and posts to the National Woman's Relief Corps. Liza-beth A. Turner, chairman of the Andersonville Prison Board, sent the following letter to Alderman Prison Board, sent the following seter.

Barry:

Dear Sir: Your devotion to the interests of the Grand Army of the Republic has been manifested on many occasions, but never more so than when you effected the passage by both branches of the City Council of an order presenting to the National Woman's Relief Corps the gates and granite posts which formerly stood opposite West-st, on Boston Common. These gates are to be placed at the main entrance to the Andersonville Prison pen, which has been secured as a memorial by the Grand Army. Here died over eighteen thousand heroes of the late Civil War, who gave up their lives and all that was dear to them for their country's sake. I am sure their surviving comrades in the Grand Army of the Republic appreciate your patriotic action, as above referred to, and will ever remember you with a deep sense of obligation and gratitude. I am, dear sir, yours very respectfully.

Chairman Andersonville Prison Board.

Alfred C. Fincklin, was brought to a dramatic close this afternoon by his being sent to the insane asylum. Fincklin is the son of the late Orlando B. Fincklin, who married a sister of Alfred H. Colquitt, late Governor of Georgia. Fincklin, the elder, was well known all over the West. He was an intimate well known all over the West. He was an intimate friend of both Lincoln and Douglas, and was in Congress with them. Among other things Alfred acted as broker for some rich people, lending their money out and paying the interest as it became due. After a long time it was learned, it is said, by the merest accident that notes for several thousand dollars were forgeries. The Grand Jury found sand dollars were forgeries. sand dollars were forgeries. The Grand Jury found fifteen indictments against Fincklin, and the cases came to trial this week. The first case was proved clearly, but by a blunder of the State's Attorney in copying the indictment, in which a note was wrong-ty described. Judge Henry Van Sellar, of Paris, ordered the jury to render a verdict of acquittal, which was done.

The next case was called, and while it was in progress the State's Attorney made the astounding progress the State's Attorney made the astounding progress the forged notes stolen. There was a dramatic scene, but no one was able to find the notes, and the case on trial went the way of the first. Then with eleven indictments left the State's Attorney obtained continuance till the January term of the Circuit Court, in order to try to find the notes. William-st. Charles T. Pierce, president of the club, was at the head of the table, and among the country of th
